

The 2022 ILAIS Ein-Dor Student Prize for Information Systems Research

To: Tamir Mendel

From: Awards Committee and ILAIS

Dear Tamir Mendel,

Re: You won the 2022 Ein-Dor Student first runner-up prize for Information Systems Research

Congratulations! We are pleased to inform you that your proposal has won the first runner-up prize in The 2022 ILAIS Ein-Dor Student Prize for Information Systems Research. In addition to this letter, you will receive an award of 1,000 NIS during the next ILAIS conference on July 6, 2022, at The Ruppin Academic Center. This decision will be announced at ILAIS 2022 conference.

We are delighted to deliver this award to you on behalf of ILAIS and the Awards Committee (Prof. Emeritus Nava Pliskin, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, Prof. Daphne Raban, University of Haifa, Dr. Lior Zalmanson, Tel-Aviv University, and Dr. Adi Katz, Shamoon College of Engineering). To receive the award, you must present your work at ILAIS 2022 and include an acknowledgement of the ILAIS Ein-Dor Student Prize in your future journal/conference paper(s), as well as be an ILAIS member.

A driving force in the Israeli and international information systems communities in Israel and globally, Prof. Philip Ein-Dor was a founding member of both the Association for Information Systems (AIS), serving as the eighth AIS president, and the Israel Association for Information Systems (ILAIS), serving as its chair for over a decade. He co-founded both the Communications of AIS (CAIS) journal and the Journal of AIS (JAIS), serving as its founding editor as well as on the editorial or advisory boards of many other journals, and has inspired and guided numerous graduate students and researchers in the IS field.

Ofir Ben-Assuli, ILAIS president

Dizza Beimel, ILAIS secretary

Dalit Levy, ILAIS treasurer
